

Circular is for friends of Circle. We invite your feedback.

C I R C L E

Circle Design Incorporated
200-72 Princess Street
Winnipeg, Manitoba
Canada, R3B 1K2
T + 204 943 3693
F + 204 943 9483
coordinator@circle.mb.ca
www.circle.mb.ca

Summer Reflections

Robert L. Peters in the Bugaboos.

Rob Reaches for New Heights

A trip to Tel Aviv for an Icograda board meeting offered Rob the opportunity to tour the borders of Israel, experience the living history of Jerusalem, climb Masada, and float in the Dead Sea – the lowest point on the earth’s surface. Recreational sorties to greater heights found Rob on several climbing excursions in the Canadian Rockies, crowned by a glorious summit experience in the Bugaboos of British Columbia. 🌐

Back to School for 'Segun

'Segun attended his first two weeks of the Master of Advertising Design program at Syracuse University in New York this summer. He quickly adopted a rigorous routine of classes, work, studying, and sleeping (when time allowed). 'Segun then rushed to Winnipeg to change suitcases and, with his family under his arm, headed to England to met up with his three sisters. All had a wonderful time on the tubes, sightseeing on open-top double-decker busses, shopping on Oxford Street and visiting the Queen for afternoon tea – just kidding. 'Segun’s highlight – fooling around in his sister’s right-hand-drive car. 🚗

'Segun Olude with fellow student Lawrence in Syracuse.

Leah’s Diamond in the Rough

While out for a morning walk at Winnipeg Beach, Leah and her husband Robert came across a massive 30 foot cedar log carving called “Anishinaabe” (meaning a distinct society). It was created in 1991 in a matter of only two months by craftsman Peter Toth, who states, “My monuments are made to remind people of the contributions of the Indians of this country... to honor the plight of the Native People of North America. May it become a symbol of brotherhood and unity for all who pass this way.” 📷

Leah’s husband Robert Cole with log carving.

A diamond is a chunk of coal that stuck to its job.

~ AUTHOR UNKNOWN ~

IF I'D KNOWN I WAS GOING TO LIVE SO LONG, I'D HAVE TAKEN BETTER CARE OF MYSELF. — LEON ELRID

Carol Puts Wind In Her Sails

Carol spent some of her holidays in BC with husband Murray and daughter Jennifer. She also spent time at the family cottage at Lake Wanipigow in the Canadian Shield, 175 miles northeast of Winnipeg, with Murray, son Cameron and three cats. We hear that Carol conquered her fear of sailing by spending a windy afternoon aboard their Hobie Cat, throwing caution (but not her life jacket) to the wind. 🛶

Carol with husband Murray Mackay and daughter Jennifer.

Sue Traces Her Roots

Sue walked the crowded streets of Scotland in June as she traced her roots. Touring buildings designed by architect Charles Rennie Mackintosh (Glasgow School of Art, the Willow Tea Rooms, and the Lighthouse) was a highlight of Sue's trip. Other city sorties took her to Edinburgh where she toured the Edinburgh Castle, the Royal Mile and the National Art Galleries. The trip allowed Sue to meet a long-lost relative and to take in the richness of the Scottish landscape, heritage, hospitality and culture. ✈️

Susan M. Watt at Edinburgh Castle.

Carisa's Family Holiday

Carisa had a nostalgic holiday this year. With only one kid left at home, her parents decided that they should all pile into a mini-van and head west to Vancouver and Victoria. They had many memorable moments touring Okanagan vineyards, gazing at beautiful mountain waterfalls, and exploring Vancouver – Robson Street, Granville Island and Stanley Park. The ferry to the Island was a first for Carisa, who found Victoria to be stunning. Carisa and her family were happy to create some new memories together. 🏠

Carisa Romans (far right) with family in British Columbia

THE MAN WHO WASTES TODAY LAMENTING WILL WASTE TOMORROW LAMENTING TODAY. – PHILLIP BASKIN

He who thinks twice before saying nothing is wise.

~ AUTHOR UNKNOWN ~